

Heather Kirksey

Director of product and technology strategy for Motive at Alcatel-Lucent

Heather Kirksey has played a critical role, leading teams of technical experts from all over the world, in defining several key specifications relating to the management of devices in the home that have helped enormously to enable the phenomenal growth of broadband over the last five years. This work has included the world-adopted TR-069 CPE WAN management protocol and many other areas including internet gateways and femto access.
